BY FRANK H. SIMONDS, Author of "The Great War." Acceleration of the German retirement in the last three days is the best evidence that Ludendorff has solved the second of the great problems set for him by Foch's sucessful counter offensive.

Ludendorff's first problem was to avoid envelopment of the huge German forces in the Marne salient. He mastered this by placing a reserve Men Pleased With Them army under Gen. Eben on the hills in He reinforced his divisions before Rheims and massed heavy artillery at the Rheims and Soissons corners. Having done this, he was assured that the neck of the bottle in which Boehm's army was involved would not be blocked and a retirement of his troops would be possible.

else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair. Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the

To the Wife of One Who Drinks "BALMWORT" PLEASES MANY

Hundreds of thousands are afflicted with irregularities of the Kidneys and bladder. Thousands have found true comfort and benefit using Balmwort Kidney Tablets, sold by all druggists. Mrs. Frank Monehan, 1519 Penrose St., St. Louis, writes: "I am taking Balmwort Kidney Tablets and must say they are the finest thing on the market—and I feel I could not live if I had to be without them."—ADVER-

ESSENTIAL, DRAFT BOARD RULES

Must Get Useful Work or Be Ready for Military Service, District Body Decides.

ST.LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

The District Appeals Draft Board today settled the disputed question of the usefulness of saloon keepers, by ruling that they are not essential and must get jobs or hold therselves in readiness for military service.

The first ruling was made in the case of William E. Armstrong of 3512 Bell avenue, in the Twentieth Ward. Several of the ward boards have regarded saloon keepers as essential. The Twenty-third Ward Board, in one case, noted that a saloon keeper was not nonproductive. because he is the owner of a busi-

Twenty-one questionnaires were examined by the District Board under the "work-or-fight" rule, and eight of the registrants were adjudged nonessential, and placed in class 1. They will have to work at useful jobs, or fight. They are: Twentieth Ward, Tenth Ward, Fred P. Hoh Jr.: Fifteenth Ward, Vincent Duda, William Norden, George Ricks, George Sweha, William Teasdale and Oliver Kinkade. Twelve were passed on in the Tenth, eight in the Fifteenth and one in the Twentieth. District Board yesterday passed on the classification of 14 registrants in the 1918 class. They are in the Fifteenth Ward. These are the first of the 1918 class to be classified

RECEIPTS A NEW WEEK'S RECORD

Special Campaign Bringing Excellent Results—34,000,000 Persons Now Saving Systematically.

y the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 30.—Sale of War Savings and Thrift Stamps brought $58,055,000 into the Treasury last week, and broke earlier rec-ords for receipts from that source. This weekly yield is about equal to that of the entire month of June, and is largely a result of the nation-wide campaign June 8 to obtain pledges for systematic investment of War Savings Stamps. Aggregate revenue to the Government from millions of these small savings is expected to reach $200,000,000 for July, or nearfour times the highest rate here-

The war savings organization esti-mates that 34,000,000 persons are now saving systematically through purchase of Thrift or War Savings Stamps, indicating that about one third of the nation's population are investing an average of $1.75

HOUSEWIVES' VOLUNTARY WHEAT SAVING PLEDGES ANNULLED

Food Administration Releases Then From Conservation Agreement— "Half-and-Half" Rule Stands,

WASHINGTON, July 30 .- Another step toward partial resumption by the nation of its old habit of eating was taken yesterday by the Food Ad-ministration in releasing housewives from voluntary pledges to curtail the consumption of wheat. This follows closely the release of hotels, restaurants, clubs and dining car services from their pledge, effective Aug. 1. No change has been made, the Food Administration announced in the half-and-half rule, and purchasers of wheat flour will be required to continue the purchase of an equal weight of wheat substitutes. Bakers are still requested to make "victory" bread containing at least 25 per cen wheat substitutes. Coming in of the new wheat crop has made it possible for the release of voluntary wheat-

MERCHANTS-MANUFACTURERS' TAX TO BE OVER $2,000,000

Equalization Board's Estimate Puts Returns 11 Per Cent Above

Those of Last Year.

The Board of Merchants and Manufacturers' Tax Equalization, on adjourning today after a six weeks' session, estimated that the receipts for the city from this class of taxation for the coming year will be $2,080,285.88, an increase of 11 per cent over the fiscal year which end-ed in April.

This increase, the board says, is due partly to the higher value of merchandise under war conditions and to the accurate returns made by nost merchants and manufacturers In some instances the returns made were not accepted and the assessments were raised. This action by the board added about $29,000 to the taxes to be collected.

The board is composed of Henry F. Ebsecht, chairman; Patrick H. Clarke and Theodore D. Kalbfell.

BARBER. Bu SHARPE SHEARS, O. R. E. (Exclusive in This Field.)

T was not long before it became quite generally known in Berlin that I was shaving the Kaiser, and it had exactly the effect on my business that the Kaiser said it would have when he made it plain to me that I must expect from him only small tips. He said I would get the Junker trade of the city-a great asset to any barber shop enjoying it, for the junkers are the fiercest of all the Germans and go to great lengths to indicate their fierceness in their whiskers-and I did get it. All the members of the celebrated General Staff came to me, and great men in the Empire like Von Hindenburg and Von Ludendorf were familiar figures in my shop. You may be sure that as an American I was quick to see what my chance was, and got rid of my former trade in a hurry. When one of these people persisted in coming, I let him cool his heels waiting while the big fellows were looked after. It didn't take them long to see they were not wanted; though two or three of them, who seemed to take pride in being shaved by the barber who draped every morning the long whiskers of Von Tirpitz, had to be driven off with such expedients as not giving them anything to read when having their hair trimmed and making the mistake of sticking the face towels in ice water after they had been shaved.

Anyway, we got rid of them. My shop became a rendezvous for all the great war lords of Germany. Fully half of them aped the Kaiser in having their mustaches trained up at the ends; though they were all careful not to exactly duplicate those of his majesty, lest they offend him and suffer rebuke. It was sometimes very amusing to hear them debating among themselves whether this thing or the other was going too far in that respect, a matter in which they frequently had recourse to one another's judgment. I have heard even Von Hindenburg, whose mustaches, if you recall, turn up at the ends, ask his fellow Junkers if he were in danger of committing lese majestie. What they all realized perfectly was that the Kaiser would be flattered by imitation of his celebrated ice-tongs; but woe to that one of them who outdid them! and they all knew it.

I have sometimes regretted that I did not pay more attention to what these men said and less to the money with which they did my coffers fill. I might have warned the world of their bloody design; for they were quite frank in talking about it among themselves, and anyone in my shop might have heard it. Alas for the great opportunity that was mine! The baseness of human nature is such that I thought only through all those months of what remarkable fortune was mine, and not once of the great privilege I had of serving civilization. I cannot help feeling that my American training misled me at the critical time. Raised as we are in this country to get money, we can learn only by getting out of the country that there are even finer things than money to get. Thus, the average American would rather have money than an education. He is willing to forego all those riches of the mind which are the very flower of civilization, if he may have a big automobile and make the sidewalk tip up when he steps out of it. The number of those in America whose checks are good but whose grammar is bad is a sufficient commentary upon the relation of the American mind to things worth while. That such violent distortion of the values of life would have its terrible consequences was certain, and it had them in my barber shop. Possibly I might have averted the war altogether; certainly I could have told the world what was coming and have given it some time to prepare for that giant conflict which has gone on for four years only because the Germans caught the rest of the world napping. However, that is another story, too. You may imagine my astonishment soon after New Year when the Kaiser himself came into my shop. He wanted a quick shave, and was gone within twenty minutes; but his coming made a stir that did not subside the rest of the day. I protested to His Majesty when I went to the palace to shave him the next afternoon. but he only laughed.

"People are shy of barber shops on account of the barber's itch, and if they know I went into your place they will feel it is all right."

I must tell you what kind of man the Kaiser impressed me as being in that early period of our acquaintance. He struck me as one who might have enjoyed a career of great usefulness had he not been born who he was. Being Kaiser kept him from being himself, if you understand these psychological distinctions with which all barbers are familiar. That he was capable of warm friendship was proven by his disposition to help me. Though having known me but a short while, he was prompted to do something for me and adopted what he thought the best means of doing so even at no small sacrifice to the dignity of his position. He once said to me:

"Shears, there is just one man living whom I envy. That is your man Roosevelt. His career could have been spoiled by the environment into which I was born, just as mine could have been made glorious by being free. Just think what Roosevelt's chance and my energy and versatility could have achieved!" The Kaiser impressed me strongly as one who bore a grudge against that world into which he had been miscast. He did not want to be Kaiser; but there being no escape from the ungracious part, he meant to play it until the world would forget that any other man had ever appeared in it. (Continued Tomorrow.)

Johnson's Plan to Play Series Before Sept. 1 Precipitates Another Argument.

One club owner in the American League has advanced the proposal that subsequent to the current trip of the Eastern clubs through the West, which concludes Aug. 8, a "home and home" series between the Western and Eastern clubs be arranged. If the schedule runs through up to Labor day, this will allow each up to Labor day, this will allow each open dates. You can readily see

In his suggestion that the season terminate on Aug. 20, Johnson points out that it is not fair to the Government to expect to play the world's series after the "work-or-fight" order has become effective under the new allotment of time. He asserts that the last vestige of professional baseball should be wiped off the Government's ruling.

You can readily see that this is a happy family, in which dissensions are fully as rare as high prices in war time.

In other words, dear reader, this is the National Baseball Commission, the governing body of organization he has given the American League the edge, as a rule. Oweoost has yet to win his first blue ribbon in a beauty show; but that may be because he has never entered one. It may be said, however, that his presence on the National Commission has for many years made harmony between the wooleagues possible.

Profits and Prices

Profits may be considered from two angles:

1st—Their effect on prices; 2nd—As a return to investors.

When profits are small as compared with sales, they have little effect on prices.

Swift & Company's profits are only a fraction of a cent per pound on all products sold, and if eliminated entirely would have practically no effect on prices.

Swift & Company paid 10 per cent dividends to over 20,000 stockholders out of its 1917 profits. It also had to build extensions and improvements out of profits; to finance large stocks of goods made necessary by unprecedented requirements of the United States and Allied Governments; and to provide protection against the day of declining markets.

Is it fair to call this profiteering?
